ULAT NG BAYAN SURVEY

November 14 – 20, 2014 / Philippines

OVERVIEW and SUMMARY FINDINGS

Pulse Asia Research's November 2014 Ulat ng Bayan Survey: General Report

Overview

This Pulse Asia Research survey was conducted from 14 to 20 November 2014. Using a multistage probability sampling design, 1,200 adult respondents were selected nationwide and their perceptions, sentiments, and attitudes on a number of national political, economic, and social concerns were probed. The main instrument of inquiry is a pre-tested questionnaire that took, on average, around 77 minutes to complete in a face-to-face interview format. As in previous Ulat ng Bayan surveys, this survey has an overall error margin of +/- 3 percentage points at the 95% confidence level. Subnational estimates for each of the geographic areas covered in the survey (i.e., Metro Manila, the rest of Luzon, the Visayas and Mindanao) have an error margin of +/- 6 percentage points, also at the 95% confidence level. (The sampling design and the questionnaire employed by the Ulat ng Bayan are presented and discussed in detail in this report's Appendix A: Technical Notes.)

Immediately prior to and during the conduct of the interviews for this survey, the following developments dominated the news headlines in the country:

1. the Senate's continued investigation into allegations of corruption against Vice-President Jejomar C. Binay, particularly his decision not to appear before the Senate Blue Ribbon Committee on 07 November 2014 and to instead send representatives to read his affidavit, an offer which members of the committee declined; and former Makati City Vice-Mayor Ernesto Mercado's revelations during the 18 November 2014 hearing that the Vice-President, while serving as Makati City's mayor, received condominium units from several developers in exchange for tax or permit concessions;
2. the cancellation of a debate between Vice-President Binay and Senator Antonio Trillanes IV originally scheduled on 27 November 2014 and which was supposed to cover issues related to, among others, the alleged overpricing of the Makati City Hall Building II; Senator Trillanes' remarks that the Vice-President backed out of the debate to prevent the public from knowing that, in 2007, he conspired with Magdalo soldiers to overthrow then President Gloria Macapagal-Arroyo in the so-called Manila Peninsula siege;
3. the Senate probe into the reported overpricing of another infrastructure project - the Iloilo Convention Center, which was endorsed by Senate President Franklin M. Drilon as a recipient of his Priority Development Assistance Fund (PDAF);

4. the participation of President Benigno S. Aquino III in the 22nd Asia-Pacific Economic Cooperation (APEC) Economic Leaders' Meeting in China and the 25th Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN) Summit in Myanmar, where free trade, greater investments, and the tension in the West Philippine Sea were among the issues discussed;
5. the global efforts to stop the spread of the Ebola virus and, in the Philippines, the 21-day quarantine in Caballo Island imposed on Filipino peacekeepers returning from Liberia and the controversial visit of top military and health officials to these soldiers which, critics argue, broke health protocols;
6. Filipinos' commemoration of All Saints' Day and All Souls' Day as well as the first anniversary of Typhoon Yolanda, with the nation once again expressing gratitude for the assistance extended by the world community in the aftermath of the super typhoon and some government critics lamenting the slow pace of recovery in the affected areas;
7. the probe being conducted by the National Bureau of Investigation (NBI) into the reported anomalous procurement of vaccines in 2012 by Department of Health (DOH) Secretary Enrique Ona and DOH Undersecretary Eric Tayag; acting DOH Secretary Janette Garin also found herself in hot water as she is alleged to have benefitted from the involvement of the National Agribusiness Corporation (Nabcor) in the PDAF scam;
8. the report of the Senate Committee on Public Order and Dangerous Drugs which calls on the Office of the Ombudsman to determine whether or not Philippine National Police (PNP) Chief Alan Purisima should face corruption charges in connection with his receipt of donations for his official residence and a huge discount on a sports utility vehicle;
9. the approval by the House Committee on Energy of Joint Resolution No. 21 which seeks to grant President Aquino emergency powers to allow him to more efficiently and effectively address the looming energy crisis in 2015 and the Senate's approval on second reading of a bill that would raise the tax exemption cap for the 13th month pay and other benefits from the current ₱ 30,000 to ₱ 82,000; and
10. in the economic front, the lower electricity bills of Manila Electric Company (Meralco) customers for November 2014 primarily due to lower generation charges; the announcement of the National Statistics Office (NSO) that the national headline inflation slowed down in October 2014 as it hit 4.3% as a result of lower growth in the prices of food and non-alcoholic beverages; the release of export data by the Philippine Statistics Authority (PSA) showing Philippine export earnings in September 2014 increasing by 15.7% year-on-year, outperforming other Asian countries such as China, South Korea, and Taiwan; and the failure of the Bureau of Internal Revenue (BIR) to meet its collection target for October 2014 as it was able to collect only ₱ 101.8 billion, lower than its target of ₱ 114.14 billion.

These major developments put into the proper context the findings of this survey which explores Filipinos' assessment of the performance of President Aquino and his administration, the work done by selected government officials and agencies, and the trustworthiness of selected personalities and government institutions as well as their views concerning overall poverty and food poverty threshold, retrospective and prospective changes in personal quality of life (QOL), and urgent personal and national concerns. This survey also looks into Filipinos' preferences for the May 2016, and public opinion about the proposals to amend the 1987 Philippine Constitution, news monitoring habits, the President's adherence to his "tuwid na daan" policy, the possibility of successfully combatting corruption in government, the necessity of imposing martial rule today, sense of hope or hopelessness among Filipinos, and the coming holiday season.

Summary Findings

SOCIO-ECONOMIC INDICATORS

- A. A sizeable majority of Filipinos (61%) consider themselves to be very poor/poor. In contrast, 16% of Filipinos classify themselves as well-off/wealthy. The rest of the population (23%) say they are neither poor nor wealthy. These figures do not differ in any significant way from those recorded in December 2013. Across geographic areas, majorities identify themselves as very poor/poor, with figures ranging from 54% in Mindanao to 64% in the rest of Luzon (outside of Metro Manila). There are slightly more Filipinos in the country's rural areas who say they are very poor/poor compared to their counterparts in urban Philippines (57% versus 51%). Conversely, more of those in the urban parts of the country categorize themselves as well-off/wealthy relative to those living in rural Philippines (19% versus 13%). Figures in the different geographic areas vary from 8% in the rest of Luzon to 25% in Visayas and Mindanao. As for those who are on-the-line, percentages range from 12% among Visayans to 28% among Metro Manilans and those in the rest of Luzon. *(Please refer to Tables 1 and 3.)
- While figures remain virtually constant between December 2013 and November 2014, several significant changes may be noted during the period November 2011 to November 2014. During this three-year period, the percentage of Filipinos who say they are very poor/poor drops (-13 percentage points). Figures also decline in the Visayas (-16 percentage points), Mindanao (-26 percentage points), and in rural Philippines as a whole (-15 percentage points). Meanwhile, the percentage of Filipinos who are on-the-line goes up (+12 percentage points) and similar movements occur in Metro Manila (+17 percentage points), the rest of Luzon (+17 percentage points), and those residing in the country's urban areas (+15 percentage points). Additionally, the percentage of well-off/wealthy residents decreases in Metro Manila (-19 percentage points) but increases in the Visayas (+13 percentage points) and Mindanao (+17 percentage points). (Please refer to Table 4.)
- B. A Filipino household would need ₱ 15,000 to cover its monthly expenses - higher than the December 2013 median overall poverty threshold figure (₱ 14,000). And from this amount, more than half (₱ 8,000) would go to food expenses alone. Again, this figure is higher than the median food poverty threshold figure obtained by Pulse Asia Research in December 2013 (₱ 6,000). Across household categories, higher median overall poverty threshold and median food poverty threshold figures are registered among households which are well-off/wealthy (₱ 20,000 and ₱ 10,000, respectively) relative to those which are very poor/poor and on-the-line (both at ₱ 15,000 and ₱ 8,000, respectively). *(Please refer to Table 1.)

- Between December 2013 and November 2014, median overall poverty threshold and median food poverty threshold figures increase by ₱ 5,000 and by ₱ 2,000, respectively, among households which are very poor/poor. Likewise, similar upward movements are recorded among well-off/wealthy households (₱ 5,000 and ₱ 3,000, respectively). Among households which are on-the-line, the median overall poverty threshold figure remains unchanged between December 2013 and November 2014 but the median food poverty threshold figure increases by ₱ 1,000.
- Higher median overall poverty threshold and food poverty threshold figures obtain in Metro Manila than in the Philippines as a whole. Among Metro Manilans, the minimum required amount to meet a household's monthly expenditures is ₱ 20,000, with figures across household categories ranging from ₱20,000 among very poor/poor households to ₱ 25,000 among those who are well-off/wealthy. As for median food poverty threshold, the figure is ₱ 10,000 – in Metro Manila as a whole and in all household categories in this particular geographic area. (Please refer to Table 2.)

C. As far as their personal circumstances are concerned, the plurality sentiment among Filipinos is one of lack of change over the past 12 months (44%). Those whose personal situation worsened year-on-year outnumber those with a positive assessment of their personal circumstances (31% versus 24%). With regard to the year ahead, practically the same percentages of Filipinos either expect no change whatsoever in their personal quality of life (QOL) or express optimism on the matter (46% versus 44%). Between September and November 2014, there is a decline in the percentage of Filipinos whose personal QOL deteriorated in the last 12 months (-11 percentage points). In the meantime, optimism as regards one's personal circumstances becomes more pronounced (+7 percentage points) while pessimism eases (-8 percentage points). (Please refer to Table 5.)

- Retrospective personal quality of life (QOL). A bare majority of Metro Manilans (51%) and government employees (51%) observe no change – positive or negative – in their personal QOL year-on-year. Only 30% of urban Visayans echo this assessment. Meanwhile, the biggest percentage of gainers (i.e., those who are better off now than last year) may be found in urban Visayas (36%) and among private sector employees (38%) and the biggest percentage of losers (i.e., those who are worse off now than 12 months ago) are those with at best some high school education (40% to 41%), those aged 65 years old and above (43%), and those in the poorest Class E (44%). In contrast, only 17% of those in the oldest age cohort identify themselves as gainers while only 16% of those in the best-off Class ABC say they are losers. (Please refer to Table 6.)

- There are fewer Filipinos who classify themselves as losers in November 2014 than in September 2014 (31% versus 42%). Figures decline among Visayans, Mindanaoans, those in rural Philippines, those belonging to Class D and particularly sub-Class D1, males and females alike, those aged 25-34 and 55-64 years old, high school graduates, and those who are working, specifically farmers/fisherfolks. (-9 to -22 percentage points). The only other significant movements occurring between September and November 2014 are the increase in the percentage of gainers among those aged 25-34 years old (+13 percentage points) and Visayans (+17 percentage points) as well as the rise in the percentage of Mindanaoans saying their personal QOL remained the same year-on-year (+18 percentage points). (Please refer to Table 7.)
- Prospective personal quality of life (QOL). Majorities in the rest of Luzon (52%) and particularly in its rural areas (55%), the oldest age bracket (52%), farmers/fisherfolks (52%), and those with at best some high school education (53% to 55%) do not expect their personal situation to change in the year ahead. Fewer of those with college degrees share this view (35%). Most private sector employees (51%), those aged 18-34 years old (52%), those with at least a vocational education (52% to 56%), and those in Class ABC (56%) are hopeful that their personal QOL will improve in the next 12 months. Optimism is least manifest among those aged 65 years old and above (29%). As far as levels of pessimism are concerned, they range from 5% in Class ABC and the youngest age group to 20% among urban Visayans. (Please refer to Table 8.)
- Optimism becomes more pronounced between September and November 2014 not only at the national level (+7 percentage points) but also among residents of rural Philippines (+9 percentage points), females (+9 percentage points), those who are employed (+10 percentage points), those in the 25-34 years old age cohort (+13 percentage points), Mindanaoans (+15 percentage points), and those in Class ABC (+18 percentage points). On the other hand, there is a decline in the level of pessimism in the Philippines as a whole (-8 percentage points) as well as among Mindanaoans, those living in the country's rural areas, those in Class D and particularly in sub-Class D1, female Filipinos, those aged 35-44 years old, high school graduates, and those who are working, specifically the self-employed (-9 to -14 percentage points). (Please refer to Table 9.)

MOST URGENT PERSONAL AND NATIONAL CONCERNS

D. Staying healthy continues to be the top concern of Filipinos. In November 2014, it is the only personal concern deemed urgent by most Filipinos (66%). A second set of urgent personal concerns includes completing one's education or providing schooling for one's children (49%) and having enough to eat on a daily basis (42%). Having some savings (39%), having a good source of income (39%), and having one's own house and lot (37%) comprise a third group of urgent personal concerns. Filipinos are least concerned about avoiding being a crime victim (28%). (Please refer to Table 10.)

- The leading first-mentioned urgent personal concern of Filipinos is staying healthy (27%) while the top second-mentioned personal concerns are staying healthy (22%), completing one's education (16%), and ensuring one's food security (15%). All seven concerns included in this probe are cited by essentially the same percentages of Filipinos as their third-mentioned urgent personal concern (10% to 19%).
- Staying healthy is the only personal concern cited by majorities in all geographic areas and socio-economic classes (61% to 73% and 60% to 73%, respectively). The only other majority personal concerns in November 2014 are finishing one's education (53% among Visayans) and having enough to eat on a daily basis (51% also in the Visayas). In contrast, those in the rest of Luzon, Visayas, Mindanao, and Classes D and E are least concerned about avoiding being a crime victim (22% to 30%). In addition, Metro Manilans are least concerned about crime victimization (31%) and personal savings (33%) while those in Class ABC are least concerned about having their own house and lot (23%). (Please refer to Table 11.)
- Interestingly, it may be observed that Mindanaoans are more concerned about staying healthy than those in the rest of Luzon (73% versus 61%). Concern as regards personal health is also more notable in Class ABC than in Class E (73% versus 60%). Meanwhile, Visayans are relatively more concerned about personal food security than Metro Manilans (51% versus 39%). Concern as regards job security is more marked among those in the rest of Luzon than Visayans (43% versus 30%). And those in Class ABC are more inclined to cite avoiding being a crime victim as an urgent personal concern than those in Classes D and E (41% versus 23% to 27%).

- E. Public opinion concerning urgent personal concerns is practically unchanged between December 2013 and November 2014. The only notable movement during this time is the decline in the level of concern for job security (-9 percentage points). Still, it may be noted that there is a slight increase in the level of concern for having some personal savings during this period (+6 percentage points). (Please refer to Table 12.)
- F. A little over half of Filipinos (52%) think the national administration must immediately address the need to control the spiraling cost of goods and services. This is the only national concern considered urgent by most Filipinos. Increasing workers' pay (46%) and reducing poverty (40%) make up a second group of urgent national concerns while a third group includes fighting corruption in government (36%) and creating more jobs (30%). A fourth grouping of urgent national concerns covers criminality (26%), peace (19%), and rule of law (19%). In the meantime, 15% of Filipinos are concerned about environmental degradation. Less than one in 10 Filipinos express concern as regards population control (8%), charter change (4%), and territorial integrity (4%). (Please refer to Table 13.)
- The top first-mentioned urgent national concerns of Filipinos are inflation (21%) and workers' pay (18%). Five issues are the second-mentioned urgent national concerns by at least one in 10 Filipinos – inflation (18%), workers' pay (15%), poverty (14%), corruption (11%), and job creation (10%). These same issues are the leading third-mentioned urgent national concerns of Filipinos (13% to 14%).
 - Majorities in Metro Manila (57%), the rest of Luzon (51%), Mindanao (53%), Class D (53%), and Class E (54%) cite inflation as an urgent national concern. The only other issues considered urgent by majorities across geographic areas and socio-economic classes are workers' pay (51% in Metro Manila and Class E) and corruption in government (52% in Class ABC). The common least often-cited urgent national concerns in all geographic areas and socio-economic groupings are charter change (2% to 5% and 4%, respectively) and territorial integrity (2% to 6% and 3% to 5%, respectively). (Please refer to Table 14.)
- G. There are only two significant changes in Filipinos' sentiments concerning urgent national concerns between September and November 2014. These are the 7-percentage point rise in the level of concern for promoting peace in the country as well as the 8-percentage point decrease in the level of concern for creating more jobs. All other movements during this period are marginal in nature as they fall within the overall error margin of +/- 3 percentage points. (Please refer to Table 15.)

PERFORMANCE RATINGS OF THE AQUINO ADMINISTRATION ON SELECTED NATIONAL ISSUES

- H. The national administration fails to score a majority approval rating on any of the 12 issues on which it is performance-rated in this survey. Approval is the plurality sentiment toward the Aquino administration's efforts to defend national territorial integrity (50%), respond to the needs of those affected by calamities (49%), fight criminality (47%), promote peace (45%), protect the environment (45%), and fight corruption in government (45%). On the other hand, pluralities disapprove of the current dispensation's initiatives to control inflation (45%) and reduce poverty (41%) – issues that are considered urgent by 52% and 40% of Filipinos, respectively. *(Please refer to Table 16.)
- The administration receives almost the same approval and indecision ratings for its work in the areas of enforcing the rule of law (41% versus 38%). Public opinion is split three-ways toward the Aquino administration's performance in terms of creating additional jobs (37% approval, 34% indecision, and 30% disapproval), controlling population growth (32% approval, 38% indecision, and 31% disapproval) and increasing the pay of workers (32% approval, 33% indecision, and 35% disapproval).
- I. There are no marked movements in the performance ratings of the national administration during the period September to November 2014. The only exception to this general observation is the drop in the level of ambivalence as regards the latter's work in the area of fighting corruption in government (-8 percentage points). However, numerically speaking, the administration scores its lowest approval rating on four issues in November 2014 – criminality (47%), peace (45%), rule of law (41%), and population control (32%).¹ In contrast, the current dispensation posts its highest disapproval rating (i.e., numerically) on seven issues in this quarter – poverty (41%), corruption (32%), population control (31%), job creation (30%), criminality (22%), and rule of law (21%).² *(Please refer to Tables 17 and 19.)

¹ In May 2012, the national administration also obtained an approval rating of 32% for its efforts to control rapid population growth.

² The Aquino administration received the same disapproval rating for its work in the area of ensuring the equal enforcement of the law on all Filipinos in September 2014 (21%).

MAY 2016 ELECTIONS: PRESIDENTIAL RACE

- J. Vice-President Jejomar C. Binay continues to lead the May 2016 presidential race with an overall voter preference of 26%. In second place is Senator Grace Poe (18%), followed by Senator Miriam Defensor-Santiago (12%) and former President and incumbent Manila City Mayor Joseph Estrada (10%). Ten (10) other probable candidates for president in May 2016 each register voter preferences of at most 7%. Only 2% of Filipinos are not inclined to support the presidential bid of any of the 14 personalities included in this electoral probe. (Please refer to Table 20.)
- Across geographic areas and socio-economic classes, Vice-President Binay is the leading presidential candidate in the Visayas (28%) and the poorest Class E (30%). Almost the same voter preferences are obtained by Vice-President Binay and Senator Poe in Metro Manila (29% versus 19%), Mindanao (30% versus 19%), and Class D (26% versus 20%). In the rest of Luzon, relatively the same levels of electoral support are enjoyed by Vice-President Binay (22%), Senator Poe (20%), Senator Defensor-Santiago (13%), and Senator Francis Escudero (10%). And in Class ABC, essentially the same double-digit voter preferences are recorded by Senator Defensor-Santiago (19%), Vice-President Binay (17%), Senator Poe (17%), and Department of Interior and Local Government (DILG) Secretary Manuel A. Roxas II (10%).³
- K. In the event that their original choice for president does not run in May 2016, 19% would instead vote for Senator Poe. Three other individuals have double-digit second-choice presidential voter preferences – Senator Escudero (13%), Senator Defensor-Santiago (12%), and Vice-President Binay (10%). The other personalities included in the presidential electoral probe register second-choice voter preferences of at most 9%. Of those with a first choice for president, only 4% are not inclined to support an alternative candidate for the position. (Please refer to Table 21.)
- Three probable presidential bets – Senators Poe, Escudero, and Defensor-Santiago – enjoy virtually the same second-choice voter preferences in Metro Manila (12% to 22%), the rest of Luzon (11% to 20%), and Class ABC (10% to 22%). In the Visayas, it is Senators Poe and Defensor-Santiago who post almost the same levels of electoral support (17% and 18%, respectively). Meanwhile, five individuals record practically the same figures in Mindanao – Senator Poe (16%), Vice-President Binay (14%), former President Estrada (14%), Senator Escudero (12%), and DILG Secretary Roxas (11%). In Class D, a different set of five candidates have basically the same voter preferences – Senator Poe (18%), Senator Escudero (16%), Senator Defensor-Santiago (11%), Vice-President Binay (10%), and former President Estrada (10%). And in Class E, Senator Poe (21%), former President Estrada (11%), and Vice-President Binay (10%) are the ones with nearly identical figures.

MAY 2016 ELECTIONS: VICE-PRESIDENTIAL RACE

- L. One in three Filipinos (33%) would vote for Senator Poe as vice-president if the May 2016 elections coincided with the conduct of the interviews for this nationwide survey. The lawmaker is followed by Senator Escudero (20%) and Senator Alan Peter Cayetano (13%). There are seven other personalities whose vice-presidential chances are probed in this survey and they register voter preferences ranging from 0.3% to 8%. Less than one in 10 Filipinos (2%) does not support any of the probable vice-presidential candidates probed in this survey. (Please refer to Table 22.)
- Senator Poe is the leading choice for vice-president in May 2016 among those in Metro Manila (41%), Mindanao (39%), and Class D (33%). Basically the same voter preferences are obtained by Senators Poe and Escudero in the rest of Luzon (29% versus 21%), the Visayas (26% versus 17%), and Class E (31% versus 19%) while in Class ABC, three individuals register virtually the same levels of support – Senator Poe (32%), Senator Escudero (19%), and Senator Cayetano (19%).
- M. Nearly the same percentage of Filipinos with a first choice for vice-president would go for either Senator Poe (23%) or Senator Escudero (20%) should their original vice-presidential bet not pursue his/her candidacy in May 2016. Senators Cayetano and Antonio Trillanes IV also have double-digit second-choice voter preferences (15% and 12%, respectively). The other individuals included in this particular electoral probe have second-choice voter preferences of at most 7%. Non-support for an alternative candidate for vice-president is expressed by 5% of Filipinos who have a first choice for the post. (Please refer to Table 23.)
- Four of these personalities – Senators Poe, Escudero, Cayetano, and Trillanes – post virtually the same second-choice figures in the rest of Luzon (13% to 24%), Mindanao (15% to 19%), Class ABC (12% to 25%), Class D (13% to 22%), and Class E (10% to 23%). In Metro Manila, only three of these lawmakers have double-digit second-choice voter preferences – Senators Poe (23%), Escudero (22%), and Cayetano (13%). Among Visayans, there are five lawmakers with double-digit figures – Senators Poe (24%), Escudero (18%), Cayetano (15%), and Trillanes (12%) as well as Senate President Franklin M. Drilon (10%).

MAY 2016 ELECTIONS: SENATORIAL RACE

- N. With around 17 months to go before the May 2016 elections, Filipinos are identifying a mean of 10 and a median of 12 of the senatorial bets they are supporting in May 2016 (out of a maximum of 12). Mean figures range from 9 in the rest of Luzon and Visayas as well as among those in Class ABC, those aged 55 years old and above, the self-employed, Tagalogs, Ilocanos, and Ilonggos to 12 among Muslims. On the other hand, median figures vary from 10 among urban Visayans and Ilonggos and 12 in all other survey sub-groupings. A sizeable majority of Filipinos (64%) have a complete senatorial slate for May 2016 (i.e., they are already naming 12 preferred senatorial candidates). Majority figures are recorded in practically every survey sub-grouping ranging from 51% among rural Visayans and Kapampangans to 92% among Muslims. The only non-majority figures are posted among Aglipayans (45%), Ilonggos (46%), and Visayans (50%), particularly urban Visayans (47%). (Please refer to Tables 24 to 25.)
- O. Out of the 59 individuals included in the senatorial electoral probe, 14 have a statistical chance of winning if the May 2016 elections were held at the time of the conduct of this survey. All of the probable winners are either incumbent or former government officials. Sharing the top spot are Senator Vicente C. Sotto III (54.7%) and Presidential Assistant for Rehabilitation and Recovery Panfilo M. Lacson (52.9%). Both have a statistical ranking of 1st to 3rd places. They are followed by Presidential Assistant for Food Security and Agricultural Modernization Francis N. Pangilinan (49.2%) who occupies 1st to 6th places. Three probable senatorial bets are in 3rd to 8th places – former Senator Juan Miguel F. Zubiri (45.5%), Senator Ralph G. Recto (45.1%), and Senate President Franklin M. Drilon (44.9%). With an overall voter preference of 42.9%, former Senator Richard Gordon finds himself in 4th to 9th places. Close behind the latter is Senator Ferdinand R. Marcos, Jr. (40.5%) who is in 4th to 10th places. (Please refer to Table 26.)
- Completing the list of probable winners are Senator Sergio R. Osmeña III (37.8%, 7th to 12th places), former Akbayan Party-List Representative Risa Hontiveros (35.4%, 8th to 14th places), former Senator Jamby Madrigal (34.9%, 9th to 14th places), Department of Justice (DOJ) Secretary Leila M. de Lima (33.8%, 9th to 14th places), Senator Teofisto Guingona III (31.8%, 10th to 15th places), and Taguig City Representative Lino Edgardo S. Cayetano (31.3%, 10th to 15th places). Non-support for any of the 59 probable senatorial bets included in this probe is expressed by only 3.6% of Filipinos.

PERFORMANCE RATINGS OF THE TOP FIVE OFFICIALS OF THE PHILIPPINE GOVERNMENT

- P. Only President Benigno S. Aquino III manages to score a majority approval rating in November 2014 (59%). Approval is the plurality sentiment as regards the work done by Senate President Franklin M. Drilon (47%) and Vice-President Jejomar C. Binay (45%). In contrast, nearly half of Filipinos aware of them are ambivalent toward the quarterly performance of House Speaker Feliciano R. Belmonte, Jr. (49%) and Supreme Court Chief Justice Maria Lourdes A. Sereno (46%). The disapproval ratings of these top government officials range from 11% for President Aquino to 23% for Vice-President Binay. (Please refer to Table 27.)
- Q. Amidst the ongoing Senate investigation into charges of graft and corruption against him, Vice-President Binay experiences a 21-percentage point erosion in his overall approval score between September and November 2014. The latter's national disapproval rating goes up by 13 percentage points and indecision toward his performance also becomes more pronounced during this period (+8 percentage points). The only other significant movement at this time is the 8-percentage point improvement in Senate President Drilon's overall approval rating. Public assessment as regards the work done by President Aquino, House Speaker Belmonte, and Supreme Court Chief Justice Sereno is generally unchanged from one quarter to the next. (Please refer to Table 28.)

PERFORMANCE RATINGS OF PRESIDENT BENIGNO S. AQUINO III

- R. In November 2014, appreciation continues to be the majority sentiment concerning the performance of President Benigno S. Aquino III in the last three months (59%). About one in 10 Filipinos (11%) expresses outright disapproval for the same while three in 10 (30%) are ambivalent on the matter. These figures do not differ in any significant way from those obtained by the President in September 2014. There are also no notable changes in presidential performance ratings across survey sub-groupings. (Please refer to Tables 32 to 33.)
- President Aquino enjoys majority approval ratings in practically all geographic areas and socio-demographic groupings, with figures ranging from 52% among those with some college education to 69% among urban Visayans and rural Mindanaoans. The President's only non-majority approval rating (49%) is granted by those in urban Luzon, including Metro Manilans. In contrast, presidential disapproval ratings range from 6% in urban Visayas to 17% in Metro Manila. As for indecision on the matter of approving or disapproving presidential performance, it is most manifest among those with some exposure to college (38%) and least notable in rural Visayas (22%). (Please refer to Table 32.)

AWARENESS LEVELS AND PERFORMANCE RATINGS OF SELECTED CABINET MEMBERS AND CABINET-LEVEL GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS

- S. Most Filipinos know the 14 selected government officials included in this performance probe as these officials' awareness levels vary from 72% for Department of Transportation and Communications (DOTC) Secretary Joseph Emilio A. Abaya to 100% for DILG Secretary Roxas. Of these 14 government officials, only three receive majority approval ratings in November 2014 - DOJ Secretary de Lima (68%), DILG Secretary Roxas (59%), and Department of Social Welfare and Development (DSWD) Secretary Corazon J. Soliman (58%). Half of Filipinos aware of him (50%) approve of the work done by Metropolitan Manila Development Authority (MMDA) Chairperson Francis N. Tolentino. (Please refer to Table 37.)
- Near to small majorities of Filipinos are undecided toward the performance of Department of Budget and Management (DBM) Secretary Florencio Abad (46%), Armed Forces of the Philippines (AFP) Chief of Staff Gregorio Pio P. Catapang, Jr. (48%), Presidential Communications Development and Strategic Planning Office (PCDSPO) Undersecretary Manuel L. Quezon III (50%), Department of Trade and Industry (DTI) Secretary Gregory L. Domingo (51%), DOTC Secretary Abaya (51%), Ombudsman Conchita Carpio-Morales (51%), Presidential Spokesperson Edwin Lacierda (52%), Executive Secretary Paquito N. Ochoa, Jr. (54%), and Presidential Communications Operations Office (PCOO) Secretary Herminio Coloma (56%). Philippine National Police (PNP) Chief Alan Purisima posts almost the same disapproval and indecision ratings (39% versus 37%). Overall, the disapproval scores of these government officials vary from 7% for DOJ Secretary de Lima to 28% for DBM Secretary Abad.
- T. Only 10 of these selected government officials are included in both the September and November 2014 performance probes in the Ulat ng Bayan surveys. Among them, five experience gains in public awareness - DTI Secretary Domingo (+10 percentage points), DBM Secretary Abad (+9 percentage points), Executive Secretary Ochoa (+8 percentage points), Presidential Spokesperson Lacierda (+8 percentage points), and PCOO Secretary Coloma (+8 percentage points). With the exception of the 8-percentage point decline in the overall disapproval rating of DTI Secretary Domingo, the improvements in the awareness figures of these five officials do not translate to any significant changes in their respective performance ratings. The only other notable movements during this period are the gains in approval enjoyed by DILG Secretary Roxas (+13 percentage points) and PCDSPO Undersecretary Quezon (+7 percentage points). (Please refer to Table 38.)

PERFORMANCE RATINGS OF SELECTED SENATORS

- U. Less than half of the 19 senators whose performance is assessed in this survey post majority approval ratings. These lawmakers are Senators Poe (91%), Escudero (80%), Loren Legarda (68%), Alan Peter Cayetano (66%), Vicente Sotto III (65%), Recto (63%), Trillanes (56%), Marcos (56%), and Osmeña (54%). Approval is the plurality opinion concerning the work done by Senators Juan Edgardo Angara (50%), Aquilino Martin Pimentel III (50%), and Maria Lourdes Nancy Binay (47%). Two senators register essentially or exactly the same approval and indecision ratings – Senators Guingona (47% versus 43%) and Gregorio Honasan (44% versus 44%). In contrast, almost the same disapproval and indecision ratings are obtained by Senators Juan Ponce Enrile (35% versus 36%) and Ramon Revilla, Jr. (38% versus 39%). Indecision is the plurality sentiment toward the performance of Senators Manuel Lapid (45%) and Jinggoy Ejercito Estrada (41%). (Please refer to Table 40.)
- V. Among the 17 senators performance-rated in both the September and November 2014 surveys of Pulse Asia Research, only two enjoy improvements in their overall approval ratings – Senate President Drilon (+8 percentage points) and Senator Sotto (+7 percentage points). In contrast, Senator Binay experiences a drop in her national approval score (-9 percentage points) as well as an increase in her disapproval rating (+9 percentage points). These are the only notable changes in the performance ratings of these lawmakers during the period September to November 2014. (Please refer to Table 41.)

PERFORMANCE RATINGS OF SELECTED GOVERNMENT INSTITUTIONS AND AGENCIES

- W. Only six of the 21 government institutions and agencies included in this survey post majority approval scores – Department of Health (77%), Department of Education (75%), DSWD (68%), DOJ (63%), Department of Agriculture (61%), and Supreme Court (51%). Five other entities register plurality approval ratings – Department of Foreign Affairs (50%), AFP (50%), DILG (49%), Department of Energy (45%), and PNP (45%). Essentially or exactly the same approval and indecision figures are obtained by the Department of Tourism (44% versus 42%), Senate (42% versus 41%), Sandiganbayan (41% versus 44%), DTI (41% versus 41%), MMDA (42% versus 41%), and House of Representatives (38% versus 43%). The DBM, on the other hand, registers basically the same disapproval and indecision ratings (32% versus 38%). As for three agencies, indecision is the plurality opinion toward their performance – Land Transportation Franchising and Regulatory Board (47%), Office of the Ombudsman (46%), and Malacañang Communications Group (45%). The disapproval ratings of these government institutions and agencies range from 6% for the Department of Health (DOH) to 32% for the DBM. (Please refer to Table 42.)

- X. Public opinion concerning the performance of these government entities remains virtually unchanged between September and November 2014. The only marked movements during this period are the decline in the national approval score of the AFP (-8 percentage points) and the decline in the national level of indecision concerning the work of the DBM (-7 percentage points). (Please refer to Table 43.)

TRUST RATINGS OF THE TOP FIVE OFFICIALS OF THE PHILIPPINE GOVERNMENT

- Y. It is only President Aquino who enjoys the trust of most Filipinos in November 2014 (56%). Trust is the plurality sentiment toward Vice-President Binay (44%). Senate President Drilon registers exactly the same trust and indecision ratings (42% versus 42%) while a near majority of Filipinos are unable to say whether they trust or distrust House Speaker Belmonte (48%) and Supreme Court Chief Justice Sereno (45%). Levels of distrust in these leading government officials range from 13% for President Aquino to 26% for Vice-President Binay (26%). (Please refer to Table 44.)
- Z. For the period September to November 2014, the only marked changes in the trust ratings of these top national government officials are experienced by Vice-President Binay. At this time, trust in the Vice-President eases (-20 percentage points) while distrust becomes more pronounced (+15 percentage points). The slight increase in the level of ambivalence toward presidential trustworthiness (+6 percentage points) is marginal as it falls within the survey's overall error margin of +/- 3 percentage points. (Please refer to Table 45.)

TRUST RATINGS OF PRESIDENT BENIGNO S. AQUINO III

- AA. A small majority of Filipinos (56%) continue to trust President Aquino. Distrust in the latter is expressed by 13% of Filipinos while 31% are unable to say whether they trust or distrust him. These figures are essentially the same as those recorded by President Aquino in September 2014. There are also no significant changes in the figures posted in all geographic areas and socio-demographic groupings. (Please refer to Tables 46 to 47.)
 - Trust remains the majority sentiment toward the President in practically every survey sub-grouping, with figures ranging from 51% in rural Luzon to 65% in rural Mindanao. The only non-majority trust scores of President Aquino are extended by Metro Manilans (49%), private sector employees (49%), and those with some college education (50%). On the other hand, distrust is most pronounced (17%) among those in urban Luzon (including Metro Manilans), private sector employees, and the self-employed. Single-digit distrust ratings (8% to 9%) are recorded across Mindanao and among vocational school graduates. As for levels of indecision, they vary from 23% in the oldest age group to 35% among urban Mindanaoans and those working in the private sector. Additionally, indecision is relatively more marked among younger Filipinos than their older counterparts (33% in the 18-24 years old age bracket versus 23% among those aged 65 years old and above). (Please refer to Table 46.)

TRUST RATINGS OF KEY GOVERNMENT INSTITUTIONS

BB. None of the three government institutions trust-rated in November 2014 succeed in scoring a majority trust rating. The Supreme Court posts basically the same trust and indecision scores (41% versus 44%) while indecision is the plurality opinion on the matter of trusting or distrusting the Senate (48%) and the House of Representatives (50%). These three entities register almost the same distrust ratings (14% to 16%). Filipinos' assessment of the trustworthiness of the Senate, the House of Representatives, and the Supreme Court hardly changes between September and November 2014. (Please refer to Tables 51 to 52.)

NEWS TRACKING

CC. A sizeable majority of Filipinos (61%) report that they monitor the news on television on a daily basis. In contrast, about one in three Filipinos (32%) do not get their news from radio while majorities have never monitored the news through newspapers (51%) or the Internet (79%). Of those who do not get their news from the Internet, 42% do not have Internet access at all. Between April 2013 and November 2014, the percentages of Filipinos who do not monitor the news through radio and newspapers increase (+14 and +16 percentage points, respectively). (Please refer to Table 53.)

- Across geographic areas and socio-economic classes, near to big majorities obtain their news from television every day (46% to 78% and 44% to 78%, respectively). Meanwhile, big pluralities to near majorities in the rest of Luzon (48%) and all socio-economic groupings (31% to 36%) have never monitored the news through radio. In Mindanao, 29% say they get their news from radio less than once a month while almost the same percentages in Metro Manila and the Visayas either monitor the news through radio daily (18% and 24%, respectively) or have never obtained their news from radio (29% and 28%, respectively). (Please refer to Table 54.)

- Big pluralities to sizeable majorities in Metro Manila (41%), the rest of Luzon (66%), Visayas (43%), and every socio-economic grouping (44% to 62%) do not monitor the news through newspapers. In contrast, practically the same percentages of Mindanaoans either get their news from newspapers less than once a month (40%) or have never monitored the news through newspapers (35%). In the meantime, sizeable to big majorities in all geographic areas and socio-economic classes do not monitor the news through the Internet (66% to 84% and 61% to 91%, respectively). It may be noted that non-monitoring of news through the Internet is more pronounced in the rest of Luzon, Visayas, and Mindanao than in Metro Manila (77% to 84% versus 66%) as well as in the poorest Class E than in the best-off Class ABC (91% versus 61%).

CHARTER CHANGE

- DD. Six in 10 Filipinos (60%) know about recent proposals to amend the 1987 Philippine Constitution. Majority levels of awareness are recorded in Metro Manila (67%), the rest of Luzon (64%), and Mindanao (65%) as well as in all socio-economic classes (51% to 67%). However, most Visayans (62%) have not heard, read or watched anything about these charter change proposals. At the national level, 40% are not aware of suggestions to amend the 1987 Constitution. Between September and November 2014, awareness becomes more marked in Mindanao (+16 percentage points) and less manifest in the Visayas (-17 percentage points). (Please refer to Table 55.)
- EE. A big majority of Filipinos (74%) know little or nothing at all about the 1987 Constitution - with 48% having a little knowledge and 26% knowing almost/completely nothing at all about the country's charter. Majority figures obtain across geographic areas and socio-economic classes (71% to 78% and 68% to 80%, respectively). In contrast, about a quarter of Filipinos (26%) claim to have a great deal or sufficient amount of knowledge about the 1987 Constitution - with 3% knowing a great deal and 22% having enough knowledge. Among those aware of proposals to amend the 1987 Constitution, a sizeable majority (62%) know little or almost/completely nothing about the charter while 38% know much/enough about it. The figures recorded in November 2014 hardly differ from those obtained by Pulse Asia Research in September 2014 - both at the national level and across geographic areas and socio-economic groupings. The only significant movement is the decline in the percentage of Visayans with enough knowledge about the country's charter (-13 percentage points). (Please refer to Tables 56 to 57.)
- FF. Nearly half of Filipinos (49%) do not think it is appropriate to amend the 1987 Constitution now - with 26% against charter change now but may be open to amending it at some future time and 23% expressing absolute opposition to charter change regardless of timing. Higher levels of opposition to charter change are posted among those aware of charter change proposals and those with a great deal/sufficient amount of knowledge about the 1987 Constitution (60% and 65%, respectively). In particular, 42% of those who know much/enough about the 1987 Constitution express opposition to amending it at the present time but are open to charter change in the future. (Please refer to Table 58.)

- Meanwhile, nearly the same percentages of Filipinos either support charter change now (27%) or express indecision on the matter (24%). Essentially the same levels of support for amending the 1987 Constitution are recorded among those aware of charter change proposals (29%) and those with a great deal/sufficient amount of knowledge about it (32%). Also, lower levels of indecision regarding charter change are posted among those aware of charter change proposals (11%) and those who know much/enough about the 1987 Constitution (2%).
- Across geographic areas and socio-economic classes, near to sizeable majorities of Filipinos are not inclined to support any moves to amend the 1987 Constitution at the present time (47% to 62% and 44% to 51%, respectively). However, if these percentages are broken down to those against charter change now but are open to it at some time in the future and those completely opposed to amending the charter regardless of timing, it may be noted that public opinion on charter change is actually split four-ways in most of these sub-groupings. In the rest of Luzon, Visayas, and Classes ABC, D, and E, virtually the same percentages favor amending the 1987 Constitution now (24% to 28%), oppose charter change now but are open to amending it in the future (19% to 29%), reject charter change at any time (21% to 28%), and express ambivalence on the matter (22% to 29%). In Metro Manila, almost the same percentages support charter change now (23%), reject charter change at present but are open to it in the future (27%), and oppose charter change at any time (35%). And among Mindanaoans, nearly the same percentages either favor charter change now (32%) or oppose it at present but may support it in the future (31%). (Please refer to Table 59.)
- Among Filipinos who are aware of charter change proposals, small to sizeable majorities reject any moves to amend the 1987 Constitution (55% to 69% and 58% to 61%, respectively). Again, breaking down these percentages shows that public opinion on charter change among those who know about charter change proposals is split three-ways across geographic areas and socio-economic groupings. Essentially the same percentages in these sub-groupings support charter change now (22% to 33% and 27% to 30%, respectively), oppose charter change now but are open to it in the future (32% to 35% and 29% to 38%, respectively), and express opposition to charter change regardless of timing (22% to 37% and 23% and 29%, respectively). An exception is the Visayas where basically the same percentages of residents either favor amending the 1987 Constitution now (33%) or reject charter change amendments now and in the future (36%). (Please refer to Table 60.)

- Among Filipinos who know much/enough about the 1987 Constitution, majorities in almost all geographic areas and every socio-economic grouping do not support charter change now (66% to 71% and 61% to 75%, respectively). Again, the exception is the Visayas where a small majority of residents with a high level of knowledge about the country's charter (51%) favor amending it at the present time. More particularly, near majorities in the rest of Luzon (47%), Mindanao (47%), Class ABC (48%) and Class E (49%) do not support charter change now but are open to it at some future time. In Metro Manila, public opinion is split three-ways, with 27% opposing charter change regardless of timing, 31% favoring amending the 1987 Constitution now, and 39% rejecting it now but being open to it in the future. In Class D, virtually the same percentages either support charter change at present (35%) or do not favor it now but are open to it at some time in the future (39%). (Please refer to Table 61.)
- Between September and December 2014, there is an increase in the overall level of support for charter change now (+7 percentage points). This observation also holds true in Mindanao (+13 percentage points). Conversely, opposition to charter change now becomes less pronounced not only at the national level (-13 percentage points) but also in the rest of Luzon (-14 percentage points), the Visayas (-14 percentage points), Mindanao (-19 percentage points), and Class D (-13 percentage points). More specifically, opposition to charter change regardless of timing becomes less manifest among Filipinos as a whole (-9 percentage points) as well as among those in the rest of Luzon (-15 percentage points) and Class D (-10 percentage points). (Please refer to Table 62.)

"TUWID NA DAAN"

GG. A big majority of Filipinos (82%) have heard, read or watched something about President Aquino's "tuwid na daan" policy. Majority levels of awareness are recorded across geographic areas and socio-economic classes (73% to 87% and 78% to 84%, respectively). For a sizeable plurality of Filipinos (36%), "tuwid na daan" pertains to the eradication of graft and corruption in government – the plurality opinion in most geographic areas and all socio-economic groupings (37% to 44% and 35% to 38%, respectively). Meanwhile, about a quarter of Filipinos (22%) associate "tuwid na daan" with honesty in government officials' performance of their duties. In the rest of Luzon, essentially the same percentages say "tuwid na daan" has to do with either eradication of corruption in government (30%) or honesty among government officials (28%). (Please refer to Tables 63 to 64.)

- About one in 10 Filipinos (14%) say “tuwid na daan” means acting in the best interest of the citizens while virtually the same percentage of Filipinos (10%) link “tuwid na daan” with choosing what is right for the citizens. In contrast, less than one in 10 Filipinos says “tuwid na daan” has to do with holding on to one’s principles (7%), serving the people promptly (5%), or the country’s leaders’ following the laws (3%). Indecision on the matter is expressed by 3% of Filipinos. On the whole, nearly the same figures are recorded among Filipinos in general and among those aware of the President’s “tuwid na daan” policy. (Please refer to Tables 64 to 65.)

HH. The plurality sentiment among Filipinos is one of indecision as regards the matter of whether or not President Aquino has been fulfilling his promise to follow a straight path (42%). Likewise, this is the plurality view among those in the rest of Luzon (46%) and Class D (44%). At the national level, 34% of Filipinos say the President has been fulfilling his promise to adhere to a straight path while 22% think otherwise. Almost or exactly the same percentages in Metro Manila (32% versus 41%), Visayas (32% versus 41%), Mindanao (42% versus 37%), and Class ABC (40% versus 40%) either say that President Aquino has been adhering to a straight path or are undecided on the matter. In Class E, public opinion is split three-ways, with 27% saying President Aquino has not been fulfilling his promise to follow a straight path, 32% expressing a contrary view, and 38% being ambivalent on the matter. Basically the same figures are recorded among those aware of the President’s “tuwid na daan” policy. (Please refer to Table 66.)

- Between September and November 2014, ambivalence on the matter becomes more pronounced at the national level (+8 percentage points) as well as in the rest of Luzon (+13 percentage points) and Class D (+9 percentage points). In contrast, disagreement with the view that President Aquino has been fulfilling his promise to follow the “tuwid na daan” becomes less marked among Filipinos as a whole (-14 percentage points) and in the rest of Luzon (-24 percentage points), Class ABC (-24 percentage points), and Class D (-15 percentage points). (Please refer to Table 67.)

MISCELLANEOUS PROBES

- II. Among Filipinos, the majority opinion is that: (1) it is still possible to successfully fight corruption in government (60%); (2) it is not necessary to have martial rule in the country today (73%); and (3) the Philippines is not a hopeless case (87%). During the period September to November 2014, there are several notable changes in public opinion on these matters: (1) agreement with the possibility of successfully combatting governmental corruption becomes more notable (+12 percentage points); (2) disagreement with the necessity of having martial law in the Philippines now becomes more manifest (+10 percentage points); and (3)

hopefulness among Filipinos becomes more pronounced (+13 percentage points) while indecision on whether or not the Philippines is hopeless eases (-8 percentage points). (Please refer to Tables 68 to 69.)

- Corruption in government. In nearly all sub-groupings, majorities still believe that it is possible to successfully governmental corruption, with figures ranging from 53% in urban Mindanao to 70% in urban Luzon and rural Visayas. The only non-majority figures are recorded in Mindanao (49%), specifically in rural Mindanao (47%). Agreement with the view that it is still possible to successfully rid government of corruption is relatively more notable among male Filipinos than their female counterparts (65% versus 55%) and among older Filipinos than the younger ones (62% to 64% among those aged 35 years old and above versus 54% to 56% in the 18-34 years old age bracket). Levels of disagreement with the view that it is still possible to successfully combat corruption in government range from 13% in the rest of Luzon and particularly in rural Luzon to 27% in Metro Manila. Meanwhile, indecision on the matter is most manifest in rural Mindanao (36%) and least notable in rural Visayas (14%). (Please refer to Table 70.)
- Martial law. The majority opinion in every survey sub-grouping is one of opposition to the imposition of martial law in the Philippines today. Levels of opposition from 58% in urban Visayas to 82% in urban Luzon (outside of Metro Manila). On the other hand, vocational school graduates (22%) and urban Visayans (23%) are most likely to favor having martial rule in the country now while only 9% of those in rural Luzon, those aged 25-34 years old, and farmers/fisherfolks share this view. Indecision levels range from 5% in urban Luzon to 20% in urban Mindanao. (Please refer to Table 71.)
- Hopelessness. Most Filipinos continue to believe that there is hope for their country (87%), with majority figures being posted in all geographic and socio-demographic groupings ranging from 75% in urban Mindanao to 93% in all areas of Luzon (outside of Metro Manila) and among farmers/fisherfolks. In contrast, levels of agreement with the assessment that the Philippines is a hopeless case range from virtually nil in urban Luzon to 9% in Metro Manila. Ambivalence on the matter is most marked in urban Mindanao (17%) and least manifest among those who farm/fish for a living (4%). (Please refer to Table 72.)

HOLIDAY SEASON AND THE NEW YEAR

- JJ. For a little over half of Filipinos (52%), their celebration of the coming holidays will be the same as the one they had a year ago – essentially the same as the December 2013 figure (54%). This is the majority sentiment in Metro Manila (51%), Mindanao (51%), and the rest of Luzon (55%) as well as in Classes D and E

(53% and 51%, respectively). Nearly the same percentages of Visayans and those in Class ABC either share this view (46% and 44%, respectively) or expect a more prosperous celebration this year compared to 2013 (41% and 47%, respectively). At the national level, 34% of Filipinos say the coming Christmas season will be more prosperous for their families. In contrast, 14% express a contrary sentiment as they expect a poorer Christmas for their families this year. (Please refer to Table 73.)

- Between December 2013 and November 2014, there is an increase in the percentage of Filipinos expecting a more prosperous Christmas season for their families (+12 percentage points). Similar movements occur in Metro Manila (+21 percentage points), the Visayas (+16 percentage points), Class ABC (+21 percentage points), and Class D (+13 percentage points). Meanwhile, the percentage of those who see a poorer holiday season for their families this year declines not only at the national level (-10 percentage points) but also in the Visayas (-21 percentage points) and Class D (-9 percentage points).

KK. Despite the various political and economic concerns being faced by the country and its people, nearly nine in 10 Filipinos (88%) say they will face the coming year with hope – the predominant sentiment in every geographic area and socio-economic class (84% to 91% and 84% to 90%, respectively). Only 1% of Filipinos will face the year ahead without hope while 11% are ambivalent on the matter. Essentially the same figures are recorded across geographic areas (1% and 8% to 15%, respectively) and socio-economic groupings (virtually nil to 1% and 9% to 15%, respectively). (Please refer to Table 74.)

NITONG MGA NAKARAANG BUWAN, MAYROONG MGA PANUKALA NA AMYENDAHAN O BAGUHING ANG KONSTITUSYON.

Q42. May narinig, nabasa o napanood na ba kayo tungkol sa mga panukalang baguhin ang Konstitusyon bago nito o ngayon lang?

SEPTEMBER 2014

NITONG MGA NAKARAANG LINGGO, MAYROON MULING PANUKALA NA AMYENDAHAN O BAGUHING ANG KONSTITUSYON. ISA SA MGA PANUKALANG ITO AY ANG PAGTANGGAL NG LIMITASYON SA ISANG TERMINO LAMANG PARA SA PRESIDENTE. KUNG MAIPASA ANG PANUKALANG PAGBABAGO SA KONSTITUSYON NA ITO, MAAARING TUMAKBO MULI ANG KASALUKUYANG PRESIDENTE PARA SA IKALAWANG TERMINO SA DARATING NA ELEKSYON NG 2016. APPENDICES:
TECHNICAL NOTES, ERROR MARGINS AND QUESTIONNAIRE

APPENDIX A:
PROJECT UBNOV2014
TECHNICAL DETAILS

A. LOCATION & FIELDWORK SCHEDULE

AREA	FIELDWORK DATES
National Capital Region	14 - 20 November 2014
Balance Luzon	14 - 20 November 2014
Visayas	14 - 19 November 2014
Mindanao	14 - 18 November 2014

B. RESPONDENTS

Respondents for the survey were 1,200 adults (18 years old and above) through face-to-face interviews. The questionnaire includes items on current political, social, economic issues as well as personal and household information.

C. SAMPLING METHOD

Sample sizes and Error Margins

Below is the distribution of the sample by area and the corresponding error margin at the 95% confidence level.

AREA	SAMPLE SIZE	ERROR MARGIN
TOTAL PHILIPPINES	1,200	+/-3%
National Capital Region	300	+/-6%
Balance Luzon	300	+/-6%
Visayas	300	+/-6%
Mindanao	300	+/-6%

Sampling Scheme

The sample size for each of the four study areas is 300 adults. Multi-stage probability sampling was used in the selection of sample barangays and the allocation of sample units in each stage is as follows:

AREA	SAMPLE BARANGAYS	PROBABILITY RESPONDENTS
National Capital Region	60	300
Balance Luzon	60	300
Visayas	60	300
Mindanao	60	300

SAMPLING METHOD (CONT'D)

For the National Capital Region:

Stage 1: Selection of Sample Barangays

Sixty (60) barangays were distributed among the 17 cities and municipalities in such a way that each city/ municipality was assigned a number of barangays that was roughly proportional to its population size. An additional provision was that each municipality must have one sample barangay. Barangays were selected at random from within each city/municipality.

Stage 2: Selection of Sample Households

In each sample barangays map, interval sampling was used to draw 5 sample households. A starting street corner was drawn at random. The first sample household was randomly selected from the households nearest to the starting street corner. Subsequent sample households were chosen using a fixed interval of 5 households in between the sampled ones; i.e., every 6th household was sampled.

Stage 3: Selection of the Sample Adult

In each selected household, a respondent was randomly chosen among household members who were 18 years of age and older, using a probability selection table. To ensure that half of the respondents were males and half were females, only male family members were pre-listed in the probability selection table of odd-numbered questionnaires while only female members were pre-listed for even-numbered questionnaires. In cases where there was no qualified respondent of a given gender, the interval sampling of household continued until five sample respondents were identified.

For the rest of the Philippines:

Stage 1: Allocation of sample barangays to Regions

Within each major area, sixty (60) barangays were allocated to the regions proportional to household population size.

Stage 2: Allocation and Selection of Sample Cities/Municipalities to Regions

Within each study area, 15 cities/municipalities were allocated to the regions proportional to household population size. Sample cities/municipalities were selected without replacement and with probability proportional to household population size.

Stage 3: Selection of Sample Barangays

Once the cities/municipalities have been selected, 60 barangays were distributed among the sample cities/municipalities in such a way that each city/municipality was assigned a number of barangays roughly proportional to its household population size. However, each city/municipality must be assigned with at least one sample barangay.

Sample barangays within each sample city/municipality were selected with equal probabilities.

SAMPLING METHOD (CONT'D)

Stage 4: Selection of Sample Households

Within each sample barangay, five households were established by systematic sampling. In sample urban barangays, a random corner was identified; a random start generated; and the interval was six. In rural barangays, the designated starting point could be a school, the barangay captain's house, a church/ chapel, or a barangay/municipal hall and the interval was one.

Stage 4: Selection of the Sample Adult

In each selected household, a respondent was randomly chosen among household members who were 18 years of age and older, using a probability selection table. To ensure that half of the respondents were males and half were females, only male family members was pre-listed in the probability selection table of odd-numbered questionnaires while only female members was pre-listed for even-numbered questionnaires. In cases where there was no qualified respondent of a given gender, the interval sampling of household continued until five sample respondents were identified.

D. RESEARCH METHODOLOGY

a. Questionnaire

The Filipino version of the questionnaire was translated into Bicolano, Cebuano, Ilocano and Ilonggo, by language experts. Each language translation was translated back to Filipino by another set of experts to make sure that the messages were conveyed accurately.

b. Training

Training was conducted in 4 central locations: Quezon City, Cebu City, Iloilo City and Davao City. The interviewers who covered Luzon were trained in Quezon City. Those trained in Iloilo City covered Ilonggo-speaking regions while those trained in Cebu City covered all of Cebuano-speaking areas (Central and Eastern Visayas and Mindanao). Interviewers trained in Davao City covered the Mindanao areas.

Training activities mainly consisted of one or two days office training to learn the basics of the project.

a. Supervisors

Supervisors reporting to the field manager monitored the study full-time. They observed interviewers (14% of total were observed by supervisors), followed-up and conducted surprise checks on the field interviewers. They also ensured that field logistics were received promptly and administered properly.

b. Spot Checking

Spot checking was done at various stages of fieldwork. The first one took place after about 30% of interviews were completed. The second spot-checking was conducted after 60% completion and the last one, immediately after 90% completion of interviewing.

During spot-checking, 24% of the unsupervised interviews were re-interviewed/back-checked. If serious errors persisted after spot-checking, the original interviews were invalidated and respondents re-interviewed. An error was considered serious if dishonesty in recording was apparent or if there was a serious misinterpretation of the study that it resulted in the wrong information.

If some questionnaires were found incomplete or had inconsistent answers, the interviewer was asked to go back to the respondent, so that the questionnaire could be completed and corrected.

c. Numbers of Calls and Substitution

Respondents sampled who were not available during first attempt were visited again with a maximum of 2 valid call backs. If the respondent remained unavailable after 2 valid call backs, a substitute who possessed the same qualities (in terms of gender, age bracket, working status and socio-economic class) as the original respondent was interviewed. The substitute respondent was taken from another household beyond the covered intervals in the sample barangay.

d. Field Editing

After each interview, the interviewer was asked to go over his/her own work and check for consistency. All accomplished questionnaires were submitted to the assigned group supervisor who, in turn, reviewed at least 50% of total interviews. If there were persistent errors, 100% of questionnaires will be reviewed.

3. Data Processing

An office editor conducted a final consistency check on all interviews prior to coding. Interview sheets were edited/checked twice by office editors before the information were encoded. A data entry computer program verified and checked the consistency of the encoded data before data tables were generated.

To ensure quality of data, 100% double encoding was conducted.

E. WEIGHTING PROCEDURE

To yield representative figures at the national level, CENSUS-based population weights were applied to the various area domains. Appropriate projection factors were applied so that original population proportions are reflected in the data tables using this formula:

$$\text{Projection Factors (weights)} = \frac{\text{Population}}{\text{No. of Interviews}}$$

For questions answered by the sample voting age adult, the following projection factors were used:

Population	AREA	Counts			Sample Size		Projection Factor

APPENDIX B: COMPARATIVE ERROR MARGINS FOR SPECIFIC SAMPLE SIZES

Formula for the computation of the error margin of a proportion

$$\text{error margin} = \pm 1.96 * \sqrt{\frac{p(1-p)}{n}}$$

where

1.96 = Z-value for large population of data at 95% level of confidence

p = proportion

n = sample size

Note: Error margins are symmetric toward $p = 0.5$ or 50%. p and $1-p$ have the same margins of error.
